

DellRay Morris Scarf

December 28, 1950 - August 15, 2010

DellRay passed suddenly as a result of a heart attack, in the early hours of the 15th of August.

With great pride, remembered is the impact he had on friends, family and anyone who would listen. He had a magnetic energy that was well supported by his enthusiasm and intelligence. More than anything, he always loved sitting around with friends and family, having a good conversation and spending all free time in the pursuit of doing so. With an enormous smile on his face, he would drive four hours out of his way to spend an hour with a distant relation, always glad to have learned something more about himself and his family. He spent the last 20 years tracing his lineage, travelling to Ireland, and connecting with family relations all over the world.

Dell is a retired Delta Police officer and helicopter pilot, who still at 59, had an insatiable thirst for knowledge and experience. The immeasurable genealogical work he has contributed to, has brought thousands of people together, and will continue to serve as a great resource for his now vastly expanded family, whom he joyously would open his arms to welcome.

DellRay is predeceased by father Morris, and mother Joyce. Survived and greatly missed by: children - Tyler, Jamie (Colby), and Jesse; sisters - Deborah, Della (Jim), Chloe; and brother - Brett (Stacy); grandchild - Keyera, Nephews and Nieces - Adam, Mackenzie, Austin, Jasmine, and Nathaniel.
